A Warm Welcome Back

Convenient and intentional dining solutions can nourish collaboration and connection in the workplace. C.H. Guenther is your committed partner for success.

As employees return to the office, food has the power to spark positive connections and create meaningful moments that strengthen workplace culture.

Yet many employers report feeling unprepared for the transition, with shared desks and constrained meeting spaces on the rise. Alongside the renewed burden of daily commuting, these dynamics underscore the need for environments that support productivity, belonging, and overall well-being.

Thoughtful dining experiences can help transform the workplace into a destination that employees value, fostering engagement, collaboration, and a sense of community.

Workplace Dining Insights

Theme	Takeaway
More Than a Meal Employee engagement has reached a 10-year low, but amid economic uncertainty the larger concern may lie in the passive 63% “quietly quitting”.¹ As a key metric for overall business performance, increasing engagement has become a common strategic priority.	Good food is a natural means to creating connection, bringing people together through shared experiences, cultural discovery, and authentic conversation. Thoughtfully prepared dining experiences, served with convenience and care, can strengthen relationships and foster overall wellness.
ROI for RTO Hybrid schedules and flexible work arrangements create fluctuations in dining demand that can be difficult for foodservice operators to predict.² Programs succeeding in today’s environment are shifting from fixed-service models to more flexible operating strategies.	Menus that can scale up or down quickly, cross-utilized ingredients, adaptable menu cycles and batch production deliver greater agility when attendance patterns are unpredictable. C.H. Guenther’s broad portfolio is designed for simple prep, extended service and adaptable use across all day-parts.
Hospitality Matters Employees are demonstrating an increased interest in workplace dining where convenience is balanced with quality and service. Successful programs score high overall satisfaction metrics by delivering strong menu variety and thoughtful engagement.²	Rotating menus, experiential dining and seasonal celebrations can drive satisfaction in today’s corporate dining landscape. CHG products offer variety and customization without additional inventory.
